Cornwallis no more for school

► Mi'kmaq historian wants students to learn full story of Halifax's founder ► 'Anything that's named after Edward Cornwallis needs to be changed': Arsenault ► Now up to school, community to decide on new name

One day after both the anniversary of Edward Cornwallis' landing in Chebucto and National Aboriginal Day, one the former Nova Scotia governor's namesakes.

The Halifax Regional School Board voted unanimously last night to change the name of Cornwallis Junior High School on Preston Street in Halifax.

Kirk Arsenault — the Mi'kmaq representative on the board — brought forward the motion to change the name of the school, saying the name was "deeply offensive to members of our Mi'kmaq communities."

"I consider this a victory for our community," Arsenault told reporters after the vote.

"What I want this to be is an exercise in healing and education. I don't want any bad feelings in this. But I do celebrate the victory for the Mi'kmaq community."

Cornwallis was the English colonel credited with the founding of Halifax in 1749. It was also in 1749 that he issued the infamous "scalping proclamation," authorizing a bounty on the scalps of Mi'kmaq men, women and children.

Mi'kmaq historian and author Daniel Paul has lobbied for 25 years to remove Cornwallis' name from the school, as well as other public places including a street and a park.

"I'm very delighted tonight to see this happen," Paul said. "I feel like dancing in the street, but I'm too old for that."

Paul said he hopes the HRSB decision will start a "push to (start) correcting other things that should be corrected."

Silence

► No representatives from the school spoke at last night's meeting. Also, no one argued against the motion.

► Students walk into Cornwallis Junior High School yesterday. The school will have a new name in September.

Council split over censure vote

► It may be a challenge for council to now work together: Hum ► People didn't want mayor censured: Streach

A day after a rushed vote on censuring the mayor, one councillor says she's left with regrets.

The motion suspending Mayor Peter Kelly from office for a week as punishment for his role in the concert scandal was supposed to be debated next week, but Coun. Steve Streach asked to suspend the rules and deal with the matter on Tuesday.

Three councillors left their seats in protest and council voted 17-3 not to censure Mayor Peter Kelly.

Coun. Debbie Hum admits she shed tears in her frustration Tuesday night.

She said she voted against the motion because of the manner in which it was brought forward, and a lack of legal knowledge on the implications and authority.

"In hindsight, I wish I had gone with my gut feeling and voted in support of the motion," she said yesterday.

"I feel the mayor has made a huge travesty and mistakes, and there should be consequences for it."

Coun. Sue Uteck, Deputy Mayor Jim Smith and Coun. Darren Fisher voted in favour of suspending the mayor.

Uteck claimed the vote was orchestrated, but Streach said it wasn't.

RYAN TAPLIN/METRO

"The vast majority (of council) felt that last night was the time to deal with this once and for all," Streach said.

"Nobody puts pressure on me. I speak for myself and I suggest anyone who says something other than that is misguided."

Streach said Kelly has apologized and he's done enough.

"I don't think it's appropriate to say after one incident of indiscretion that you throw away 25 years of public service."

Streach said it's council's job to move on.

"We're not there as members of a social club, we're there to get the job done."

More council reaction

"I just felt (Tuesday) night I did not have enough information to support that without fully understanding what the mechanism and the consequences were of doing that."

Coun. Jennifer Watts

"(Peter Kelly's) got no colour left in him, he's not eating.... He's suffering physically and mentally. And I think that the only way that people are, if they want to get rid of him, then (the election is) October 2012."

Coun. Jerry Blumenthal

RYAN TAPLIN/METRO

► Jerry Blumenthal

"Apparently I have some deep-down absolute need to see some form of punishment for wrongdoing.... I felt that, although it was potentially symbolic, and maybe only equivalent to a slap on the wrist, I just felt like something, some type of message has to be sent."

Coun. Darren Fisher

"In my opinion, the mayor did the wrong thing for the right reason. And there was no malicious intent, and there was nothing, in my opinion, that would warrant any type of (censure)."

Coun. Stephen Adams

Halifax Regional Police say a shooting at an apartment complex in Dartmouth yesterday afternoon may have been accidental.

Police were called to 44 Primrose St. just after 1 p.m. after receiving a complaint of someone firing a gunshot up into an apartment through the floor.

Police say a female resident was inside the apartment at the time but wasn't injured.

"We are examining the possibility that this may have been an accidental discharge; however, it's too early in the investigation to say anything definite," said Halifax Regional Police spokesman Const. Brian Palmeter.

After arriving on scene, a woman and female youth were arrested and taken into police custody.

Last night, Sgt. Greg Robertson said the two had been released but were expected to be re-

Police were also looking for two adult males also allegedly inside the apartment where the shot came from.

"One shot went through the floor and into the apartment, and then into the ceiling," Palmeter said. "There are indications there might have been multiple shots fired but a forensic identification unit was on scene and attempting to determine how many shots were fired."

Palmeter didn't know where the female resident was when the gunshot entered her apartment.

Work begins on Amherst wind power project

A new $61-million wind farm proposed near Amherst could be producing the energy to power 10,000 homes as early as later this year.

The project, which is expected to employ up to 50 people directly and indirectly over nine months, will include 15 turbines with a capacity of 31.5 megawatts.

"This project has been 12 years in the making and gone through many different interactions. Today, however, we are announcing the start of construction and, hopefully, we'll be on-line either in later 2011 or at the very latest early in 2012," Sprott Power president Jeff Jenner said.

► Darrell Dexter

Premier Darrell Dexter said this project is just the latest example of the Amherst area leading the way in green technology, adding the wind project will build on the work being done by LED Roadway Lighting.

HIGHWAY 103 CRASH

Cleanup could take a few days

The Environment Department says the cleanup of fuel at the site of a fatal crash involving a car and a tanker truck could last into the weekend.

The tanker caught fire and spilled some of its load after Tuesday's collision on Highway 103 that killed the driver of the car, 33-year-old Ronna Goreham of Clyde River. The 58-year-old truck driver was treated at the scene for minor injuries.

RCMP said the tractor-trailer was carrying 32,000 litres of gasoline and 9,000 litres of diesel fuel.

Karen White, an Environment Department spokeswoman, said it appeared the spill had been contained, although a visual inspection had confirmed the appearance of some fuel on the surface of a wetland 90 metres from the accident scene.

Top court set to hear case involving police officer

The case of a Halifax Regional Police officer is moving up to Nova Scotia Supreme Court.

Const. Sam Saade, who is suspended from the police force, is charged with breach of trust, threats and intimidation of a justice participant stemming from a June 2010 incident. He was arrested along with a civilian in November, but Saade was released. He was arrested again and charged in April.

Police said they received a complaint from a man who was allegedly threatened over his involvement in an incident where a man was arrested for drinking and driving.

Saade appeared in court yesterday where the case was moved to Supreme Court. A date of June 27 was scheduled to set dates for a preliminary hearing.

Amanda Greene, the 19-year-old woman facing a first-degree murder charge in the death of Dillon Blair Jewett, made a quick court appearance in Windsor yesterday.

A deal is currently being hammered out between her lawyer and the Crown. Yesterday a resolution conference was scheduled for July 28 in Halifax.

If a resolution isn't reached next month, Greene will be back in a Windsor courtroom on Aug. 10 to set trial dates.

Defence lawyer Brian Smith said there are several options to look at when dealing with a first-degree murder charge, such as reducing the charge to second degree or manslaughter.

"It gives the Crown and us the opportunity to discuss in front of a judge perhaps a different way the matter might be resolved. If those discussions are successful then the matter will be concluding," he said.

Smith added the case was switched to Halifax for the court's convenience.

Greene's co-accused, brothers Steven and Kyle Gowen, recently pleaded guilty. Steven, 21, was originally charged with first-degree murder and being an accessory after the fact. The murder charge was dropped and he was sentenced to three years in prison for the accessory charge.

Kyle, 23, pleaded guilty to second-degree murder and received a life sentence with no possibility of parole for 15 years. James Patterson, 21, of Eastern Passage, was also charged with being an accessory to murder after the fact.

The body of Jewett, an 18-year-old from Dartmouth, was discovered by ATV riders near an East Uniacke quarry on Oct. 3, 2010.

An online public-shaming campaign has emerged in the wake of Vancouver's Stanley Cup riot.

People photographed and videotaped amid the chaos have had their lives upended — lost jobs, physical threats, online ridicule.

The looting and arson spanned several hours a week ago after the Canucks lost to the Boston Bruins.

Websites and Facebook groups have sprung up to help identify the perpetrators, using photos and videos from onlookers.

But some alleged rioters are complaining about threats, even going into hiding.

Frances, 81, to meet royalty ... 72 years later

An Alberta senior who missed her opportunity to meet royalty 72 years ago is getting a second chance.

Frances Miller — now 81 — will get to meet Prince William and his wife, Catherine, when they visit Calgary next month.

In 1939, Miller was dressed in her finest and had a bouquet that she was supposed to present to Queen Elizabeth, who later became known as the Queen Mother, when she and King George stopped in her Alberta community.

But Miller was left heartbroken.

Because of some communication glitch, the train carrying the royal couple didn't stop as scheduled and just blew through the station.

The king waved back to the platform as the train went by.

Miller says she never thought she would get another chance to meet royalty and she still can't believe her luck.

Miller's local newspaper, the Medicine Hat News, spearheaded a campaign to include Miller in the royal itinerary at the last minute.

The newspaper says on its website Miller was contacted by the Prime Minister's Office to arrange the details.

"After hearing Mrs. Miller's touching story, we're pleased to be able to say that Mrs. Miller will have a role in the visit of the royal couple," said Andrew MacDougall, press secretary for the Prime Minister's Office.

'You're my woman now'

► Found on a Moncton street, she tells court of her 26-day abduction

A New Brunswick woman who disappeared for 26 days last year after leaving a shopping mall says the man accused of abducting her did so at knifepoint, threatened to kill her and later told her, "You're my woman now."

The 55-year-old woman testified yesterday at the trial of Romeo Cormier that she left the Moncton mall where she worked shortly after 8 p.m. on February 26, 2010, when she bumped into the man and apologized.

She said the man — whom she identified in court as Cormier — grabbed her and she saw a knife coming at her face, so she put her hand up and was cut across three knuckles.

"I thought I was being robbed," testified the woman, who can't be identified due to a publication ban.

She told the jury that they got to a rooming house and she was led to a basement room.

The woman told the court she was sexually assaulted almost every day she was held in the basement. She escaped when he left the house to go to a food bank.

Cormier, who is 63, has pleaded not guilty to kidnapping, forcible confinement, sexual assault, assault with a weapon, theft and uttering death threats.

Mass jailbreak fuels chaos

Chaos in Yemen deepened yesterday as nearly 60 suspected al-Qaida militants tunneled their way out of a prison in the lawless south. Much of Yemen has been paralyzed by massive protests demanding the ouster of longtime leader Ali Abdullah Saleh. He was wounded in an attack this month and his departure for treatment in Saudi Arabia has failed to quell the unrest.

Gore blasts Obama on global warming

Former U.S. vice-president Al Gore is doing what few environmentalists and fellow Democrats have done before: criticizing President Barack Obama's record on global warming.

In a 7,000-word essay for Rolling Stone magazine that was posted online yesterday, Gore says Obama has failed to stand up for "bold action" and has made little progress on the problem since he took over from Republican president George W. Bush.

Bush infuriated environmentalists by resisting mandatory controls on the pollution blamed for climate change, despite scientific evidence that the burning of fossil fuels is responsible.

Gore does credit Obama's political appointees with making hundreds of changes that have helped move the country "forward slightly" on the climate issue, but says the president "has simply not made the case for action."

administration official this month to express disappointment with Obama on environmental issues.

Former Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt, in a speech in early June, said Obama had yet to take up the "mantle of land and water conservation ... in a significant way."

"Obama has never presented to the American people the magnitude of the climate crisis," Gore says.

"He has not defended the science against the ongoing withering and dishonest attacks. Nor has he provided a presidential venue for the scientific community ... to bring the reality of the science before the public."

Saudis pledge $70M to Gaza

FUNDS. A UN agency aiding Palestinian refugees said yesterday Saudi Arabia is contributing $70 million for new housing units in the Gaza Strip.

Israel has authorized construction of the 1,200 new homes and 18 badly needed schools in Gaza, in what would be one of the largest housing projects in the seaside territory in years.

UNRWA spokesperson Chris Gunness said the test of Israel's decision would be whether it allows thousands of trucks to ferry building material into Gaza's border town of Rafah, where the houses are to be built.

Rain to ruin flood relief?

WATER, WATER. Flood watchers say they hope peak water levels have passed in the southeastern Saskatchewan city of Estevan, but that doesn't mean the worst is over.

Watershed Authority spokesperson Dale Hjertaas said water levels are still very high, but the flows should start to go down soon.

Hjertaas said the question is how much more rain might fall later this week and that means the region isn't out of the woods yet.

Estevan is one of 26 communities under a state of emergency.

The Souris River was all but certain to inundate thousands of homes and businesses during the next week.

A quarter of the city's 41,000 residents had been facing a 6 p.m. evacuation order, but emergency sirens blared at 1 p.m., warning people that the deadline had been moved up.

Big cities may be bad for brain: Research

This may come as no surprise to residents of big cities: Living there can be bad for your mental health.

Now researchers have found a possible reason why. Imaging scans show that in city dwellers, certain areas of the brain react more vigorously to stress.

Previous research has found that growing up in a big city raises the risk of schizophrenia. And there's some evidence that city dwellers are at heightened risk for mood and anxiety disorders.

The new study, done in Germany, focused on how the brain reacts to stress caused by other people.

Animal studies suggest that early exposure to stress can cause lasting effects, said Dr. Andreas Meyer-Lindenberg, director of the Central Institute of Mental Health in Mannheim, and senior author of the report.

KLM to run planes on old cooking oil

► EU has told airlines to cut carbon emissions by three per cent on continental flights in 2012

Dutch airline KLM plans to use recycled cooking oil as biofuel to power flights to and from France in a move aimed at cutting carbon emissions.

In September, KLM will begin more than 200 biofuelled flights between Paris and Amsterdam, the company said yesterday.

Camiel Eurlings, KLM managing director, said the airline does not have to make changes to its aircraft engines to use the new biofuel. As well as reducing carbon emissions, the biofuel flights are intended to produce a "minimum negative impact on biodiversity and food supply."

Eurlings said he expects authorization to be granted soon for KLM's flights using the new fuel.

The European Union told airlines this year that they would have to cut carbon emissions on flights to the continent by three per cent in 2012.

DUST BUNNIES MAKE GOOD PETS, THOUGH

HE SAYS ...

JOHN MAZEROLLE
METRO

My parents are visiting soon, which is exciting because it means I have to clean my apartment.

That's an unprecedented opportunity. Like an athlete playing for a championship, this live-alone bachelor will stand with a wash bucket filled to the brim with determination and think, "Chances like this come but once in a lifetime."

You might assume that if I wanted my apartment to be clean I could fix it up any time I want, but it's not that simple.

First of all, my apartment gets messy without my knowledge. I'm not sure how it happens, but I'll leave the odd book lying around, a stray load of laundry, a whole roast chicken and — bam! — my apartment is messy.

It's not a big place, my apartment, but it has ninja skills and sneaks up on me.

An example: Just months ago, I had a typical bachelor fridge — one bottle of ketchup and a box of baking soda. But now, inexplicably, it's packed. Not with edible food, but with homemade Accidental Soup, newly created dried fruit, and products stamped with expiry dates that evoke nostalgia. I don't know which came first, but the chicken died of old age before these eggs were eaten.

My second problem is that I'm a guy.

I don't know how many times women have warned me that their apartment is an "absolute mess." Then we step inside and there's an open magazine and half a glass of red wine. If I lay my eyes on either, they run over to remove it as if I had just discovered a human head.

Guys go through the absolute mess spiel, too, but we mean it. A glass and a magazine would not qualify. More likely we would consider that suitably sterile for a kidney transplant.

A bit messy might involve ketchup stains on the wall and chomped cigar bits on the floor. An absolute mess would involve livestock.

But here's the thing: I want my apartment to be clean. I often do clean, but it always seems to be at the surface level — the top third of the dirty clothes get washed over and over, while the bottom two-thirds are left only with unfulfilled dreams.

With my parents arriving soon, I finally have the driving force I need to see what lies at the bottom of the hamper. Unless my parents read this and decide to stay somewhere nicer, such as a gas station bathroom.

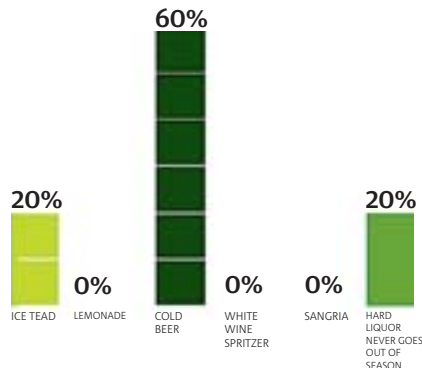

Don't show them this, please. I'm not ready to come clean just yet.

Worth mentioning

LONDON. A handgun once owned by gangster Al Capone sold for nearly $110,000 US yesterday at an auction in London.

The Colt .38 revolver was manufactured in 1929, the year of the St. Valentine's Day Massacre, when seven people were slain during clashes in Chicago between Capone's gang and a rival mob.

Auctioneer Christie's says the gun went for $109,080 US to an anonymous online bidder.

It was sold by an anonymous private collector along with a letter from Madeleine Capone Morichetti, the widow of Al Capone's brother Ralph, confirming the gun "previously belonged to and was on only used by Al Capone while he was alive."

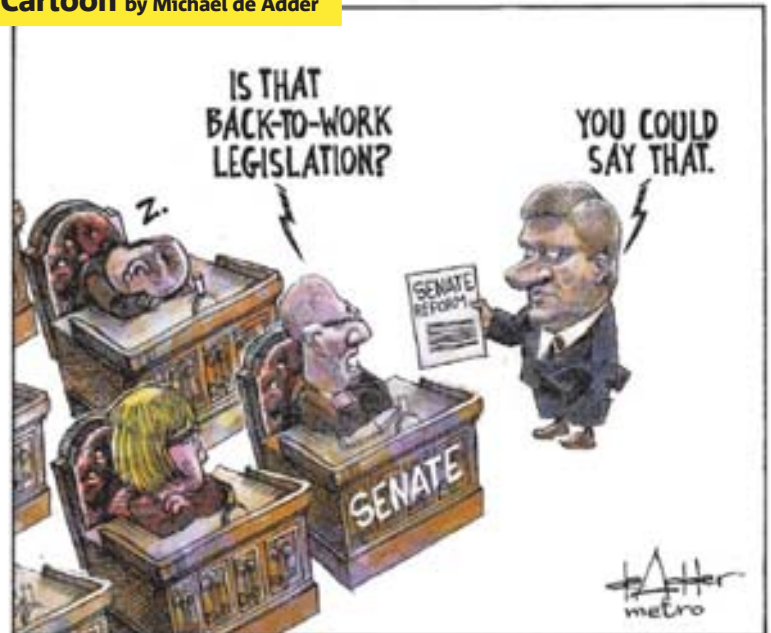

The sale price was at the upper end of the pre-sale estimate of between $80,000 and $113,000. It includes a buyer's premium.

New York-born mobster Alphonse (Al) Capone dominated the Chicago underworld during Prohibition until his 1931 arrest for tax evasion.

Capone died in 1947.

Little leadfoot just wanted to see his dad

A seven-year-old boy, barefoot and in pyjamas, drove a car for 30 kilometres, sometimes hitting speeds of 80 km/h, before finally slowing down and stopping with the help of authorities.

"He was crying and just kept saying he wanted to go to his dad's," Casseville, Mich., police Chief Jamie Learman said. "That was pretty much it. He just wanted to go to his dad's."

Police began looking for the Pontiac Sunfire around 10:15 a.m. Monday after someone called about a very young driver.

The boy was staying with his mother in Huron County's Sheridan Township, a rural area 180 kilometres north of Detroit. She had worked the night shift and was unaware her son and the car were gone.

The boy had hoped to drive to his father's home in Fillion, also in northern Michigan. Police pulled him over in a 90 km/h zone in Caseville Township, some 25 kilometres to the west.

Learman told the Detroit Free Press he has seen drivers younger than 15, but not someone this young.

Soak up the summer

From chill gardens to lively city streets, Halifax is lit up

The brief breaks of sunshine in the endless rain of early summer this year are marked by thousands of Haligonians bursting out of their homes to hit the lakes, parks and city streets.

With the student buzz replaced by the leisurely stroll of visitors, a more relaxed mood takes over the city.

For Christine Murphy, of Murphy's on the Waterfront, it's the busiest time of year for her family's sunny empire. They run a restaurant, the Mar II tall ship, Theodore Tugboat and the Harbour Hoppers.

"I think it's the waterfront. It's such a vibrant, happening place. On a nice day you can walk down here and there's so much going on," she says. "Boat tours, restaurants, the kiosks and lots of people."

She says the curiosity brought by travellers can make Haligonians look at their city in a new light. Her favourite pastime is sailing in the harbour on the Mar II. "You wouldn't even know you're near a city, it's so peaceful," she says.

Even a $2.50 budget cruise on the ferry offers a sunlit deck to peer out in the hopes of spotting a seal or even the odd tortoise.

For Elizabeth Pierce, author of Grow Organic, summer means the start of planting her urban garden.

"I go by the old adage that when the lilacs and apples are in blossom, it's safe enough to put everything in without a risk of a killing frost," she says.

"I love the Maritime summer and its precariousness: just warm enough most days for shorts, but with that ominous fog bank lurking just offshore, ready to roll in and send us running for our jackets."

After a long winter and a soggy spring, she says Haligonians are ready to enjoy the fleeting good life summer offers with hobbies such as gardening.

Family fun in Halifax

FOR METRO

With the school year ending shortly, families are going to be looking for fun and affordable things to do this summer. There is an abundance of things to do to keep the kids happy that won't burn a hole in your pocket.

More than 500 performers will be on hand for the RBC Multicultural Festival from June 30 to July 3 at the Halifax Seaport near Pier 21. The festival is the largest of its kind in Atlantic Canada. It features vendors and exhibitors. A family pass is $15, covering two adults and two children under 12.

Mi'kmaq culture will come alive on the Commons from July 1 to 3 as part of Mawio'mi 2011 a free event which will include competitive drum and dance competitions with performers from across North America and interactive demonstrations by Mi'kmaq artists.

While Canada Day will be loaded with activities, one not-to-miss event will be the free concerts at Alderney Landing. This year's performers will be Juno-nominated, the Trews, Hey Ocean! and The Stanfields. At 10 p.m., there will be a fireworks show over the harbour.

The 25th annual Halifax Jazz Festival runs from July 8 to 16m featuring free shows every day, except July 8. The festival also includes blues, classical and Latin.

For film lovers, the 11th annual alFresco filmFesto will run from July 22 to Aug. 26, paying tribute to actor and comedian Bill Murray. Films are free but donations are welcome. The filmFesto takes place on the waterfront.

A family tradition, the 25th annual Halifax International Busker Festival runs Aug. 4 to 14. Hundreds of shows will be performed on five stages.

► Aidan Orange will be one of the performers at this year's Halifax International Busker Festival.

Vacationing at home in Halifax is a breeze

ISTOCKPHOTO/THINKSTOCK

► With so many outings, you don't have far to go to get away from it all

JON TATTRIE
FOR METRO

One of the draws to living in Halifax is that when the sunshine breaks out, it's easy to get away.

Point Pleasant Park, the vast, tree-thick retreat in the south end is hugely popular with walkers, joggers, cyclists and dogs. Easy to access and with ample parking, it goes from busy on weekdays to bustling on the weekends as people enjoy the wooded trails and coastline walk.

The Public Gardens on Spring Garden Road is another hot spot, with gentle paths winding through a variety of trees and plants and plenty of benches to relax at. It has a café and free concerts, but doesn't allow cyclists or dogs and parking can be hard to find.

Shubie Park in Dartmouth is a little off the beaten track, and the secluded strolls along the scenic Shubenacadie Canal and surrounding woods make it easy to forget you're just a short drive from downtown. There is a large parking lot on Locks Road and is popular with day trippers, including canoeists exploring the canal and connected lakes.

On the other side of the harbour is Hemlock Ravine, a wilderness retreat off the Bedford Highway. The main paths can be quite busy, but if you get a hold of a map from the HRM website you can make your way to Ravine Trail, which slips through the trees to a little brook. Even at the height of summer, you'll rarely encounter anyone else — except, perhaps, a deer.

To really feel a city escape without leaving the boundaries, head to the Cole Harbour Heritage Park on Bissett Road, featuring a series of trails and along a marsh with lots of flora and fauna.

► Canoeists enjoy an afternoon out on the water.

The area once housed a farm for the poor and the "harmlessly insane" and a few hints of that past remain, including a forlorn cemetery.

Patio time in the city

► There are plenty of places to wine and dine outdoors this summer

FOR METRO

It's a sure sign of summer when the patios start opening at restaurants and bars around Halifax.

Whether one is looking to enjoy an outdoor lunch, a post-work drink or an evening outside, Halifax is loaded with patios which allow people to enjoy the cool and comfortable weather, along with that ever-present ocean breeze.

The patio capital of Halifax is likely Argyle Street, where most establishments feature patios. If nachos are on your mind, The Economy Shoe Shop (1663 Argyle St.) is the place to go. The Shoe Shop is renowned for its huge nacho portions and the bar has long been a melting pot where business people and artists alike gather.

For someone looking for an evening out on the town, the Argyle Bar & Grill (1575 Argyle St.) is revered for its two patios: — one street side, the other rooftop. Just across the street, The Bitter End (1572 Argyle St.) is regarded as the best purveyor of martinis.

It even boasts to have sold over a million martinis since opening in 2000.

One block up, The Maxwell's Plum (1600 Grafton St.) is a beer-lover's dream, with over 60 beers on tap, including local, national and international brews.

Close to the water, The Old Triangle (5136 Prince St.) is located at the corner of Prince Street and Bedford Row, with patios on both streets.

On Spring Garden Road, Your Father's Moustache (5686 Spring Garden Rd.) is a popular destination and its rooftop patio overlooks the busy Spring Garden Road. On Thursdays it's wing night.

On the other side of the street, Gatsby's (5675 Spring Garden Rd.) has a small street side patio that immerses customers right into the thick of the action on Spring Garden Road.

► The Economy Shoe Shop is a popular destination for patio lovers.

Bring on the beef

YLVA
VAN BUUREN
FOR METRO

Pia Wiesen has got her Canada Day BBQ all figured out — and it's going to be a delicious day!

The restaurant owner is celebrating Canada's birthday as well as the fact she and her family became Canadian citizens this year. The family emigrated from Germany in 1994, and today she and her husband Stefan own Pia's Bakery, a restaurant/bakery in Orangeville, Ont.

For Canada Day, she'll prepare much of the meal ahead of time — so she can enjoy the day too.

On the buffet table, there will be a platter of tomatoes sprinkled with diced shallots, a balsamic/maple syrup reduction and sliced Canadian cheddar, and served with fresh baguette. There will be burgers — classic hamburgers dressed up with sliced avocado, tomato and mayonnaise; and salmon burgers served with fresh greens and mayonnaise mixed with chopped capers.

A buffet really is the way to go on Canada Day. Make it a potluck, says Joyce Parslow, home economist at the Beef Information Centre.

Parslow suggests that the host prepare the main course meats and ask guests to bring side dishes such as potato, pasta or grain salad.

"I like to do kebabs because they're quick to cook up. Steak is always a crowd pleaser (grill one large steak, then slice it up on a platter to share), and sometimes I'll do a roast on the barbecue the day before and serve it sliced with different condiments and buns," she said.

Burgers are always a great idea. Because you prepare them ahead of time, "the flavours mix nicely in the fridge and burgers hold together better on the grill," says Parslow.

For a casual meal, add new dishes to the buffet table as they arrive or come off the grill. Everyone can wander back and forth to the table — as they visit, have fun and enjoy the day.

Canadian Beef Kebabs

A maple-y marinade recipe gives these beef kebabs a Canadian accent — even more so if you use whiskey!

Ingredients :

- ½ cup cider vinegar
- 2 cloves, garlic, minced
- 2 tbsp each maple syrup, chopped green onions and vegetable oil
- 1 tbsp orange juice or whiskey
- ½ tsp each ground cloves, salt and pepper
- 1 lb beef top sirloin grilling steak, 1-inch thick, cut into 1-inch cubes
- 2 oranges, peeled and cut into large chunks

Preparation:

- 1 Combine vinegar, garlic, maple syrup, onions, oil, orange juice, cloves, salt and pepper in large sealable freezer bag. Set aside 2 tbsp for basting.
- 2 Trim beef cubes if necessary. Add to freezer bag; seal and refrigerate for 20 to 30 minutes. Discard marinade. Thread steak and orange chunks alternately onto metal or soaked wooden skewers.
- 3 Grill on lightly oiled grill over medium-high heat, or broil, for 4 to 5 minutes per side or until browned but still pink inside.

All-Canadian Beef Cheeseburgers

Ingredients :

- 1 egg
- 3 tbsp dry bread crumbs
- ½ small onion, grated
- ¼ tsp each ground cloves and allspice
- ¼ tsp each dried marjoram (optional), salt and pepper
- 1 lb lean ground beef sirloin
- 8 slices Canadian smoked Cheddar cheese
- 4 hamburger buns
- 4 slices back bacon

Preparation:

- 1 Stir egg with bread crumbs in large bowl;

add onion, cloves, allspice, marjoram, salt and pepper. Mix in beef until just combined. Shape into four ½-inch thick patties. Make thumbprint depression in centre to prevent rounding.

- 2 Place on greased grill over medium-high heat; close lid and cook, turning once, until thermometer reads 160 F, about 10 minutes. Top each patty with cheese to melt.

- 3 Toast buns. Grill back bacon, until golden, about 1 minute. Assemble burgers.

A guide to Canada's best festivals

SIMONE JOYNER/GETTY IMAGES

► There's a festival for every interest this summer.

KELLY PUTTER
FOR METRO

As outdoor-food chomping, flip-flop clomping, fun-rumping Canadians, when it comes to summer festivals we even like a little pomp.

From the wild mountain-bike athletes at the Kokanee Crankworx festival in Whistler to Collingwood's Elvis Festival to the long-running Icelandic Festival of Manitoba to Drummondville's Festival de la Poutine, there's virtually a festival for every interest.

But with so many to attend, how do you get your money's worth?

"Going to a festival is all about planning," says Gary McWilliams, a Cobourg festival guru whose website (ontariofestivalsvisited.ca) offers a listing of Ontario events and festivals, commentary and planning tips.

Billed as the Festival Nomad, McWilliams, who has visited more than 200 festivals and who helped found Cobourg's 21-year-old Waterfront Festival, offers the following pointers:

- Check the festival's website. Most have an online presence and it can tell you a lot about the event before you get there. But it can also fool you, so be aware that "some festivals really puff their event and don't deliver," says McWilliams.

- Leave pets at home. Many festivals don't allow dogs unless it's a guide dog.

- Walk backwards. If you follow the crowd, you will invariably encounter line-ups and mini mobs at various attractions and displays. Walk the festival backwards and you're sure to hit less traffic.

- Preplan your route. Plot out your route and then find an alternative one in case there's an accident or road work that jams traffic.

- Create a checklist. It should include summer essentials such as sunscreen, water, sunglasses and a camera. Don't forget your cash, as many festivals don't have access to ATMs or credit cards.

- Pack your grub. Festival food is expensive and not the healthiest so it's wise to prepare a lunch.

► Jill Barber

No more Chances

Jill Barber used to be somewhat of a hopeless romantic. Her Juno-nominated 2008 album Chances is a perfect example of that. It's a whimsical journey of the ups and downs of falling in love.

But, since the release of that album, a lot has changed for Barber. Not only has she moved across the country (from Halifax to Vancouver), she's also released another album, Mischievous Moon, and was recently married.

"What's been happening to me artistically, musically, is somewhat of a reflection of what's been happening to me personally," Barber explains.

"I feel like Chances was kind of the courtship phase, and this new record is kind of about the being in love part."

Being married has had a big effect on the type of music Barber now creates. "I used to have an easier time writing sad, sorry, broken-hearted songs. But that was when I was sad, sorry and broken-hearted all the time."

Though she may not be keen on the hopeless part anymore, Barber is certainly still a romantic.

"The greatest compliment to me is when couples approach me about songs that I've written about my life and say, 'This is our song.'"

► Blending message with music, Son's of Maxwell Dave Carroll plays for first responder brotherhood after returning from a speaking engagement

From books to ballads, Broadway to screen play, the advice is always: write what you know.

So, when Halifax's Dave Carroll watched as his $3,500 Taylor Guitar was destroyed by baggage handlers outside his airplane window, it didn't take much to blend a few parts anger with a few parts creativity and initiate the United Breaks Guitars Trilogy (of YouTube fame).

"I had flown with that guitar 50 times and nothing happened," Carroll told me. "I no longer am told to check my guitar."

After reaching 150,000,000 people on a budget of $150 through YouTube, this musical "late bloomer" was invited by a stateside emergency response company to provide the soundtrack for another cause: first responders.

"Since I was a volunteer fire fighter, the president of the company asked if I had ever written a song for first responders," he said.

It didn't take long for Carroll to pen the beginnings of Everyday Heroes.

"I used the perspective of not knowing what the responders are going to see and how good the siren must sound to those waiting."

Thrilled by the outcome of the song, the emergency company offered to fund a music video.

Draper cashes in

Don Draper is getting job security and a raise.

Jon Hamm, who plays 1960s advertising executive Draper on AMC's Mad Men, has signed a new contract with series studio Lionsgate Television Group. Hamm's publicist, Slate PR, said Tuesday that the deal keeps him with the show for three more years. The actor will receive a substantial raise for the upcoming fifth season. By the contract's final year, he'll earn more than $250,000 an episode, Variety.com reported, citing unidentified sources.

Train produces wine for fans

The Grammy-winning group Train has been making waves with its wine club, and now, the trio is taking the next step with its own wine.

Starting next week, fans will be able to buy Drops of Jupiter Petite Sirah wine from Train's online wine club and other outlets. The name is a nod to one of Train's earlier hits, and is produced by the group's wine company, Save Me, San Francisco Wine Co., which takes its title from a Train album.

But Train guitarist Jimmy Stafford said the wine venture isn't an attempt to make a profit on the Train name — it's more about creating something special for fans.

"We're not really trying to get into the wine business or anything. It's really kind of helping to spread the name out there, and something for our fans," he said in a phone interview Tuesday.

Train, which won a Grammy Award this year for Hey, Soul Sister, has had an online wine club for a while. The group promotes a wine of the month, has a blog and even an app.

Izzard revs up some action in Cars 2

► Comedian Eddie Izzard is no stranger to voice acting ► Metro gets the goods on his busy, varied career

EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

Eddie Izzard has quite the crowded business card these days: actor, stand-up comedian, political activist, marathon runner, avid Twitterer. And with Cars 2, he joins the ranks of Pixar voice actors as Miles Axelrod, a Range Rover-ish entrepreneur who's designed a new, environmentally-friendly fuel, Allinol.

The incredibly busy Mr. Izzard sat down with Metro just hours after arriving in L.A. from Paris, where he's doing a series of stand-up shows. In French.

With cars, you've mentioned your love of Minis and Volkswagens. Your first car was a Mini?

Yes, a blue one with the windscreen wipers that just stopped working on my way down to London. And I thought, "I'll drive on." Without windscreen wipers, in the rain.

And, if you've never tried that, you should try it. It's interesting. The light comes in and refracts. You have to punch the thing out like you're in a Schwarzenegger movie or something.

But you've never really considered yourself a big car person?

I do like cars, but I'm not a car nut. I always thought, "Well I'm doing OK, I've got a bit of money, let's get a stupid car, a crazy car." And I started hiring a few, and nothing really grabbed me.

I kept coming back to the Beetle or a Mini. Because they're kind of cool, and they didn't separate me. I wasn't saying, "Hey, look how good I'm doing."

But having said that, I'd go for any type of Jag, or an Aston Martin DB5 or 6 — there's a five and a six, and I keep looking at them going, "What's the difference?"

In this you're playing what looks like a Range Rover, though I guess we can't say that.

Yes, we can't say that, can we? I'm playing Sir Miles Axelrod, the ... am I a millionaire or a billionaire? I can't remember.

All the positive side of Miles Axelrod has something Richard Branson-esque — or me-esque, because I was at some point studying accounting and financial management. And I am someone that, I suppose ... I have been taking my comedy around the world, and I've tried to do that in a very positive way.

You've definitely become something of a do-gooder in real life.

Yes, we've raised some money on the marathons.

The positive attitude I like about business is like the Pixar model. You don't have to be a rape-and-pillage business. You know, you can still make a profit. You don't have to be an ogre. You just have to work a bit harder at it.

How have you found balancing all the different work you do?

It's tricky. I've got a few things to do now, whereas in my 20s I had nothing to do. I couldn't get anything going. I think if you just had a lot of films going — film after film after film — then you would just have to juggle those together.

Instead I have a film, and then do France in French, and then maybe run some marathons, and then do something political in an election campaign. So it's mixing things together that I want to do — but I'm not just adding things on. There is a finite number to the things I like to do. There's about four of them.

CHAUFFEURING THE MAN WHO WOULD BE KING INTO A LICENCE

"I'll tell you what. I grew up in the war in London and then just after. I didn't know anybody who had a car until, well, I must've been 15 or 16 or 17.

In London at that time we had the Tube — the subway — and the buses. It was great and it was cheap. So, there was no reason to have a car. I became a movie star and I'd never driven and suddenly went from penniless to quite well off.

What happened to me was that the first car I ever bought was a Rolls Royce and I couldn't drive it. I said to them, 'I'll learn to drive it.' He said, 'No, you won't. You're not going to learn to drive in a Rolls Royce.' And when I saw the premium for me, a movie actor, by the way, the insurance premium for me to learn to drive was twice the sum that I'd pay a chauffeur.

So, I had chauffeurs my whole life and I never drove a car until I went to Los Angeles. There, as you know, you have to drive a car. So, I took my driving lesson in America.

It was very funny. When I took my driving lesson it was very official. They said, 'The inspector who will judge your driving, he will only speak to you about technical things. You will not speak to him about anything else. There will be nothing personal. Just listen to what he says and answer what he asks.' Everything had to be kept absolutely professional.

I got in the car, very nervous. I was going to take my test. I was sitting there, and he says to me, 'You're going to have to be rubbish not to pass this test because I just saw the Man Who Would Be King.'

So, I was off and running. I was a terrible driver, but I passed that test. I've had lots of cars, but I don't drive them, and especially in London. I'm not a very patient man, and the idea of parking a car and looking for a space and all of that stuff. So, I have a chauffeur. If you're famous you're not allowed to go on public transport because it could cause a hubbub."

From small screen to silver screen with Segel

► Jason Segel tells Metro about working with Diaz, Muppets
► This actor, musician, writer isn't slowing down anytime soon

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

Jason Segel isn't one for summer vacation. While on break from How I Met Your Mother, the actor, writer and musician is beyond busy promoting his latest film, Bad Teacher, opposite Cameron Diaz and Justin Timberlake, and putting the finishing touches on his passion project, The Muppets. Segel found a free moment to chat with Metro about working with Diaz, not slowing down and making his own Muppet.

Bad Teacher is a great example of raunchy comedy done well. What do you think made it work?

I think one of the things that makes the movie work is that Cameron is so intrinsically likeable and is known for having such a bright personality that there's a lot of fun to be had in seeing her kind of off the rails with that character.

Was there a lot of improvisation for your scenes with her?
There was quite a bit of ad-libbing. You know, Jake comes from the same school of comedy that we were kind of mentored by with Judd Apatow. I think part of our process in general is that a lot of the hard work is done in casting, and once you've done that and you've hired people that you're confident know their parts even better than you do as the writer or director, and so you trust in them to do their thing, and it usually pays off.

Between TV, film and promotional duties, how hectic is your schedule these days?

I was in Michigan a couple of hours ago filming, and then flew into New York. I'm here for about three hours, and then back home. So pretty busy. Right now I'm filming a movie called The Five-Year Engagement that I wrote with my writing partner, Nick Stoller, which is another romantic comedy under the Judd umbrella. And we've got Muppets coming out.

With the first official trailer

for The Muppets out now, you must be pretty stoked.

I couldn't be more excited. That's been a real labour of love. Nick Stoller and I started writing it almost five years ago now — four years ago. Seeing it come to fruition is really, really exciting.

I've seen cuts of it, and I think we're just inches away from some real magic. So we're very, very excited for our Thanksgiving release.

You've been doing some great parody trailers for it up until now.

I thought the very first parody trailer, where it seemed like a mediocre romantic comedy, was really funny. I was watching people kind of sigh in relief that Amy Adams and I hadn't made a terrible movie.

Can you tell us anything about the Muppet you created?

Yeah, his name is Walter. He's an adorable little guy who is sort of the eyes and ears of the audience, just a giant Muppet fan, and his goal is to reunite the Muppets, remind them of what they used to be.

It was really an honour to have my own Muppet made.

A Flood of changes for the Glasvegas

► Working with renowned producer Flood, Glasvegas changed half of their new album ► The move from guitarist to frontman for James Allan proves just what the band needed to hit their stride with new album

PAT HEALY
SCENE@METRONWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN BOSTON

Glasvegas guitarist Rab Allan is quick to diss his cousin James, who played guitar and sang on the band's 2009 debut, but is only listed as the singer on their new album, *Euphoric///Heartbreak\*.

"I think he just wore it because it looked good,"

he says.

The Scottish rockers' sophomore effort is decidedly different from their debut, and Allan says they owe that to more than just one less guitarist. With famed producer Flood (U2, Nine Inch Nails) in the studio with them, they achieved guitar sounds they previously thought weren't possible.

with a guitar on his shoulder because he couldn't express himself enough, so he wanted to have a bit more freedom.

Is he doing any cartwheels or backflips on stage now with this freedom?

You know what? He keeps jumping off the stage and just falling on his ass. He's getting quite good at doing that. That's one thing that he's got a talent for. But you know, I'm actually surprised how well he's taken to being the frontman, if you want to call it that, not that I've ever doubted he could do it.

Do you feel any more responsibility now that you're the only guitarist?

I actually feel less responsibility because I had to cover up his mistakes before. He used to make me look bad.

Are you serious?

No, I'm joking. But I don't feel more responsibility. I feel as though it's my thing. When he played guitar, I wasn't the only guitarist, so I couldn't say, "I'm the guitarist." But now I'm the guitarist, Paul [Donoghue] is the bass player, Jonna [Löfgren] is the drummer and he's the singer, so they're quite defined roles.

I read that you finished doing demos on your own in California, and then took them to Flood. How much changed between the original recordings and the finished results?

I guess it depends on how you look at the role of the producer. About half of the demos are what's on the album. In terms of structure, not a lot changed. The song You was completely different. It was something James did with just piano and his vocal sounded like John Lennon, so that was one of the biggest changes Flood made. But it was more like confidence and experience with sounds that he

Why is James no longer listed as a guitarist?

To be honest, I don't think it was plugged in most of the time. So the band actually sounds better with him not playing guitar.

Is he going to be upset that you're telling me this?

No, he felt quite trapped

A boy for January Jones?

If her shopping interests are any indication, January Jones is expecting a boy. The pregnant actress was spotted out in L.A. picking through baby clothes — all in the colour blue, according to Just Jared. Despite rumors and speculation, the Mad Men star has still kept mum on the baby's father's identity. "She's really looking forward to this new chapter in her life as a single mom," her rep said when Jones' pregnancy was announced. ● METRO

Harry and Pippa getting friendly?

While their siblings enjoy being newlyweds, Prince Harry and Pippa Middleton have reportedly been spending some quality time together, according to Grazia.

"They speak on the phone all the time and have met up at least five times since the wedding, once for tea at his Clarence House apartments," a source says. "She thinks he's got a really cheeky sense of humour." The pair have something else in common as well, as they're both recently single. "He only recently came out of a relationship, of course. He's been trying to cheer Pippa up," the source says. ● METRO

It seemed like fashion's

loud and wild moment was sealed, with pop stars like Lady Gaga and Rihanna ruling the best-dressed lists and trends such as sequins and fur dominating the runways. Then a princess entered the picture.

Something happened when Kate and Pippa Middleton made their way up the steps to Westminster Abbey in April. The sisters weren't just claiming their new roles as tabloid obsessions, they were also ushering in a trend for conservative and preppy dressing not necessarily sanctioned by the runway or magazine editors or even the whims of street style.

The Middletons are the respectable foil to Gaga's outlandishness. Their skirt lengths are modest. They wear nude stockings. Their blouses are tucked in. And their shoes aren't too high.

They're the daughters of multi-millionaire parents. Yet in a strange way, their personal style — touched by nary a Rachel Zoe or Nicola Formichetti — represents that of average working girls everywhere, women who can't afford stylists or don't want the hassle of walking around in tall Jimmy Choos. This is made all the more clear by

The polished looks the sisters have worn these past few months are not unlike the office-appropri-

Give a whole new meaning to the term 'chicken night'

► This dish has the flavour of lasagna with the substance of chicken ► It takes 20 minutes to make

The goal was a simple chicken casserole that had the rich, satisfying flavour of a lasagna.

Actually, that's a lie. The goal was a chicken roulade — a dish in which chicken breasts are pounded flat, then slathered or layered with some sort of filling, then rolled into a log and roasted or braised.

Except my roulade didn't co-operate. During roasting, the cheesy innards oozed out all over the baking sheet, then promptly burned. The result was an inedible, ugly mess.

Attempt No. 2 wasn't much better. I ditched the pounding and rolling in favour of cutting slits into chicken breasts, then stuffing them with a cheese and roasted red pepper filling, pinching them shut and roasting. Nice try. Sim-

Ingredients:

- 250 ml (1 cup) ricotta cheese
- 250 ml (1 cup) shredded mozzarella
- 500 ml (2 cups) prepared roasted red peppers, drained, patted dry and diced
- 1 egg
- 7 ml (1/2 tsp) lemon juice
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) dried oregano
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) dried basil
- 3 ml (3/4 tsp) salt
- 1 ml (1/4 tsp) ground black pepper
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) olive oil
- 625 g (1 1/4 lb) boneless, skinless chicken breasts, cut into 2.5-cm (1-inch) chunks
- 175 ml (3/4 cup) panko breadcrumbs
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) butter, melted

ply put, they looked like road kill.

Then it occurred to me: If the cheese wanted so badly to ooze out of the chicken, why not reverse the dish and start it that way. And thus was born this simple chicken casserole that tastes like a lasagna.

The chicken can be served over a bed of noodles or rice. It also could be spooned into a sub roll.

Preparation:

- 1 Heat oven to 200 C (400 F). Coat a 20-cm-by-28-cm (8-by-11-inch) baking pan with cooking spray.
- 2 In a medium bowl, mix together ricotta cheese, mozzarella, red peppers, egg, lemon juice, garlic, oregano, basil, salt and pepper. Set aside.

- 3 In a large skillet over medium-high, heat oil. Add all of the chicken and cook, stirring occasionally, until lightly browned, 6 to 8 minutes. It does not need to cook through. Transfer chicken to prepared baking pan. Pour cheese mixture over chicken, then stir gently to combine.

- 4 In a bowl, mix together panko and butter. Sprinkle panko over chicken, then bake for 20 to 25 minutes or until breadcrumbs are browned and chicken is cooked. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

► This perfect-for-summer Southwestern Chicken Slider is a healthy, indulgent burger — bacon and all

► The ground chicken used in this recipe is much lower in saturated fat than beef.

An indulgent burger can be the perfect summer treat, but it's hard to balance that sentiment with the urge to keep your family healthy.

That doesn't mean you have to toss out the idea of a real burger in favour of a flavourless low-fat patty wedged between a flaxseed and bran bun. You just need to think in moderation to create the kind of sandwich that would please even the most avid burger fans.

Start by going with the mini-burger or slider concept. They're small, fun and set the stage for the kind of portion control that will allow you to include all the indulgent ingredients that make burgers great.

Our recipe for Southwestern chicken sliders is a great example of this. We start with a ground chicken patty, which is much lower in total fat and saturated fat than beef.

For our toppings, we choose luxurious ingredients with the kind of big flavours and textures that allow you to use small amounts with great effect. Shredded reduced-fat cheddar cheese is melted over each patty, then sprinkled with a modest amount of real bacon bits.

To build on this smokiness, and add some serious heat, we make a chipotle mayo by blending reduced-fat mayo with some of the adobo sauce that comes in a can of chipotles.

And of course, we add some fresh shredded lettuce and sliced tomato, because no self-respecting super burger would be complete without them.

Preparation:

- 1 Heat gas grill to high or light a charcoal fire.

- 2 In bowl, mix ground chicken, salt and pepper. Form into eight 1-cm (1/2-inch) thick patties. Set aside.

- 3 In a small bowl, mix together mayonnaise and adobo sauce. Set aside.

- 4 Using a vegetable oil-soaked paper towel held with tongs, oil grill grates. Grill chicken burgers, flipping once, until a thermometer registers 74 C (165 F) at the centre, 3 to 4 minutes per side. Top each burger with some of the cheese and bacon, then continue grilling until melted. Meanwhile, toast rolls at the edge of the grill.

- 5 To assemble, spread some mayo mixture on the top and bottom of each roll. Place a burger on each roll bottom and

- 50 ml (1/4 cup) reduced-fat mayonnaise
- 5 to 10 ml (1 to 2 tsp) adobo sauce from canned chipotles, to taste
- 75 ml (1/3 cup) shredded reduced-fat cheddar cheese
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) crumbled cooked bacon

Grant pulls out of UFC fight

T.J. Grant has fallen ill and will not fight in UFC Live 4 in Pittsburgh on Sunday.

According to a tweet on the official UFC Twitter feed last night, @UFC, the Cole Harbour native is sick and his bout with Charlie Brenneman has been "scrapped."

"Get well soon, T.J.," the tweet added.

Grant's withdrawal further delays his return to the ring. He hasn't fought since a loss to Ricardo Almeida on Dec. 11 in Montreal, the longest break between UFC bouts in his career.

Grant, 3-3, told Metro earlier this week he was feeling "the best I've ever been" after the "best training camp I've ever had."

Brenneman, 2-1, hails from Hollidaysburg, Pa., and would have been a hometown favourite at the Consol Energy Centre.

Nova Scotians take to the track

The Canadian track-and-field championships got underway yesterday in Calgary.

Rachael McIntosh of Bridgewater and Alicia Dobranowski of Halifax were among those who got things started for Nova Scotia, with McIntosh placing seventh in the 100-metre hurdle stage of the heptathlon and Dobranowski placing fourth in the first 800-metre heat.

Later this week, Adrienne Power of Halifax will compete in the women's 400-metre event, as will Jenna Martin of Bridgetown.

Another Haligonian, Geoff Harris, will try his luck in the men's 800.

The 400- and 800-metre finals are being held Saturday afternoon, the final day of action at the refurbished Foothills Athletic Park adjacent to McMahon Stadium.

Looking to take the final step

▶ Already passed over in two NHL drafts, Grenier has scouts intrigued and might finally get his chance

@METRONEWS.CA

Seven months ago, Alexandre Grenier was a complete unknown to pretty much everybody living outside Saint-Jerome, Que.

While he's not yet a household name, the gifted Halifax Mooseheads winger has turned so many heads since January there's a decent chance he will be picked in the NHL entry draft in St. Paul, Minn., on Saturday.

"I never thought something like that was going to happen at the beginning of the season," said Grenier, a 19-year-old who started the campaign with the Saint-Jerome Panthers at the Quebec junior AAA level.

"I was just at the right place at the right time."

Grenier considers it a stroke of luck that he even played a game in the QMJHL.

The father of one of his Panthers teammates tipped off Quebec Remparts assistant general manager Jean Gagnon about the six-foot-five, 200-pound Grenier, who was challenging for the junior AAA scoring lead in December with 60 points in 33 games.

When the Remparts found themselves short-staffed over the holidays, Gagnon signed Grenier as a free agent to fill in temporarily.

"I remember arriving at my first practice and looking at the guys and going, 'What the heck is going on here?'" Grenier recalled. "Every pass was on the tape. I was practising twice, three times a week (in junior AAA) and in the Q it's every day. It's a big jump."

Yet Grenier made it look easy. Less than 17 minutes into his first game with the Remparts, he had his first assist — and by the end of the night, he had a goal and two helpers.

The Remparts had no choice but to keep Grenier, and he quickly evolved into ▶ Alexandre Grenier in a Quebec Remparts jersey last season.

Under the radar

Central Scouting didn't rank Alexandre Grenier for this weekend's draft. Scout Chris Bordeleau says it's a general policy not to rank 19-year-olds who already have been passed over in two drafts.

- ▶ "He's a big kid, he's a good skater for a kid that sized, and has pretty good hands," Bordeleau said. "He showed some good things. Sometimes guys come from nowhere and develop late."
- ▶ The opening round of the NHL entry draft airs live on TSN starting at 8 p.m. tomorrow. Rounds two through seven will be shown on the NHL Network starting Saturday at noon.

a point-per-game player in 46 contests at the QMJHL level.

"When I got my chance, I tried to make the most of it," said Grenier, who the Remparts traded to the Mooseheads for draft picks earlier this month. "It worked out very well."

Grenier, who played midget AA instead of the more well-travelled AAA level, has never experienced this kind of attention. Not only was he never drafted by a QMJHL team, he didn't even get an invitation to a training camp as a walk-on.

He only got his chance in junior AAA as a late ninth-round pick because one of Saint-Jerome's scouts was one of his teachers at College Charles-Lemoyne — a "lucky break," according to Grenier.

He's making up for lost time now. Twelve NHL teams have interviewed him, no doubt perplexed at how a player with his towering frame and surprising scoring touch somehow slipped through the cracks.

"I don't know either," Grenier said. "I can't say why, but I'm here now — and I'm making the most of it."

Injury ends Raonic's run

► Canadian force to retire in first set after awkward fall

It was a rough day for Canada at the All England Club.

Milos Raonic retired because of injury yesterday and Rebecca Marino and Stephanie Dubois also bowed out in the second round as the last Canadian singles players were eliminated at Wimbledon.

Raonic had just broken Luxembourg's Gilles Muller for a 2-1 lead in the first set when he went down awkwardly and was forced to call it quits after just 23 minutes.

The 20-year-old from Thornhill, Ont., was moving to his left at the baseline at 15-all but lost his footing and tumbled. His legs went in different directions as he tried to move back to his right.

► Milos Raonic falls during his second-round match yesterday.

"I don't know anything," Raonic said of the injury. "It's too soon for a diagnosis on what it is. But it's something pretty deep in the hip."

"It's around both the inside and outside of the hip. A minor pull on the inside, but on the outside, it's (related to) the joint."

Later yesterday, Marino dropped a 7-6 (3), 6-2 decision to No. 29 seed Roberta Vinci of Italy and Dubois fell 6-3, 4-6, 6-3 to Germany's Andrea Petkovic.

Raonic, who later went for an MRI, grimaced and spent some time sitting where he fell.

He eventually limped to the sidelines where he received more treatment and had his right thigh wrapped.

"I knew right away. I didn't think I could even lift my leg. It was a pretty sharp pain," Raonic said. "But as

Perry takes home Hart at NHL awards

Corey Perry barely had to speak.

The look on the face of the Anaheim Ducks forward said everything about how much it meant to be given the Hart Trophy last night. In fact, Perry even got a little choked up after accepting an award that is inscribed with names like Howe, Gretzky and Lemieux.

"(I) didn't know what to expect coming in and all of sudden you hear your name and you're like 'whoa,'" said Perry. "It surprised me. I've got to give a lot of credit to my teammates and I've got a lot of family and friends here, so it's pretty special."

He beat out Vancouver's Daniel Sedin and Tampa's Martin St. Louis to claim the trophy given to a player deemed to be the most valuable to his team.

In February Perry started on an unbelievable run that saw him score 19 goals in the final 16 games of the regular season to become the only player in the league to hit the 50-goal barrier.

"I haven't sat down and looked at it, but obviously you do know who is on that list and on that trophy," said Perry.
